

Subject: CSWC Operational Period Summary 1800 December 23 to 0600 December 24 2013

WEATHER:

Northern California – Fair skies and above normal temperatures will continue through the rest of the week as a strong high pressure ridge remains entrenched along the west coast.

Southern California – High pressure will persist over the region through the end of the week resulting in mostly clear skies, above normal temperatures, and gusty offshore winds at times. Slightly cooler weather with increasing clouds will arrive over the weekend as the high pressure system breaks down.
